Pine-Street Baptist church, will occur toflay. A free-will offering will be taken up at the morning service and it is expected that it will cover the amount of the church indebtedness, which is $1.33.

The Pine-Street Baptist church is one of the largest and most flourishing churches in the city, and during Dr. Hutson's pastorate has grown and improved in a most marvellous manuer.

An annex has been built in the rear of the church for the societies of the church,
and the infant class of the Sunday-senool,
An fron railing has been put around the edifice, and the grounds laid in griss. A large attendance is expected at the services which will be ef especial interest to edifice, and the grounds laid in grass. A large attendance is expected at the services which will be of expected interest to the members of Pine-Street church.

MONUMENTAL'S OPPENING.

As stated in yesterday's Times, Monumental church, thoroughly renovated, will be opened to-day for divine services.

The second anniversity of the pastorate of Rev. Dr. Barr fails on to-day, and the services will be of an interesting character.

Poems Written by Howard Morton, Formerly of Richmond.

Below are published two companion poems composed by a gentleman well known in Richmond, Mr Howard Morknown in Richmond, Air howard solven, who for several years has made his home in Washington. Mr Morton still regards Virginia as his home, however. He lived in Hichmond until five or six years ago. The poems, which were first published in the Army and Navy Magazine, were written, one at the commence-ment of the Spanish-American war, and the second at the termination of hostillties. They are as follows:

Down with the banner of Yellow and Red; Down with the crimes that it shields; Down with the flag of a day that is dead; Down with the curses it yields.

Down with the flag a nation that lies Dreaming through centuries grand— Seeing no glow of the dawn in the skies, Gladdening every land.

The International Teachers' Agency, Jas. L. Graham, A. B., Ph. D., manager, is one of the leading and best known Agencies of the kind in America. Their Agencies of the kind in America. Their plan differs in one or two important features from that of any other similar agency. First, it makes no effort to secure a very large registration list. They believe that by doing personal work for only first-class candidates they can give better satisfaction to teachers and to schools who favor them with their patropage than fix trying to represent say. schools who favor them with their pateral thousand teachers. They are confident that no agency can do justice to an indiscriminate list of candidates. Hence their efforts shall constantly be to keep in touch with the very best teachers enly. Second, when members of The International Teachers' Agency receive notice of vacancies they are at the same time recommended to the proper authorities as of thoroughbred cattle in Virginia to the level of Kentucky and the Northwest, indiscriminate list of candidates. People have a surplus amount of energy to work off. If they expend it in launchings and trades parades, and tournaments and things, they don't take it out in so much cussin' and lighting each other.

In consequence of these little diversions of the week, the Great Dispensor was a statesman without a job yesterday.
